Promote Remote for HDR / Timelapse

A little while back in our How-To on creating images on a budget we talked briefly about the Promote device. The Promote is a great tool for shooting HDR images, timelapse images and a lot of other cool tricks for exposure, including Focus Stacking. We just wanted to share some info about the remote, how it works, what it does etc. with you so you can see if it is something that would fit into your workflow. If you decide it is something you want, you can find it on Promote Systems website here.

To see the rest of the videos by Promote you can visit their YouTube channel here.
